Volume 56

"Looking Out for Number One is the conscious, rational effort to spend as much time as possible doing the things which bring you the greatest amount of pleasure and less time on those which cause pain."

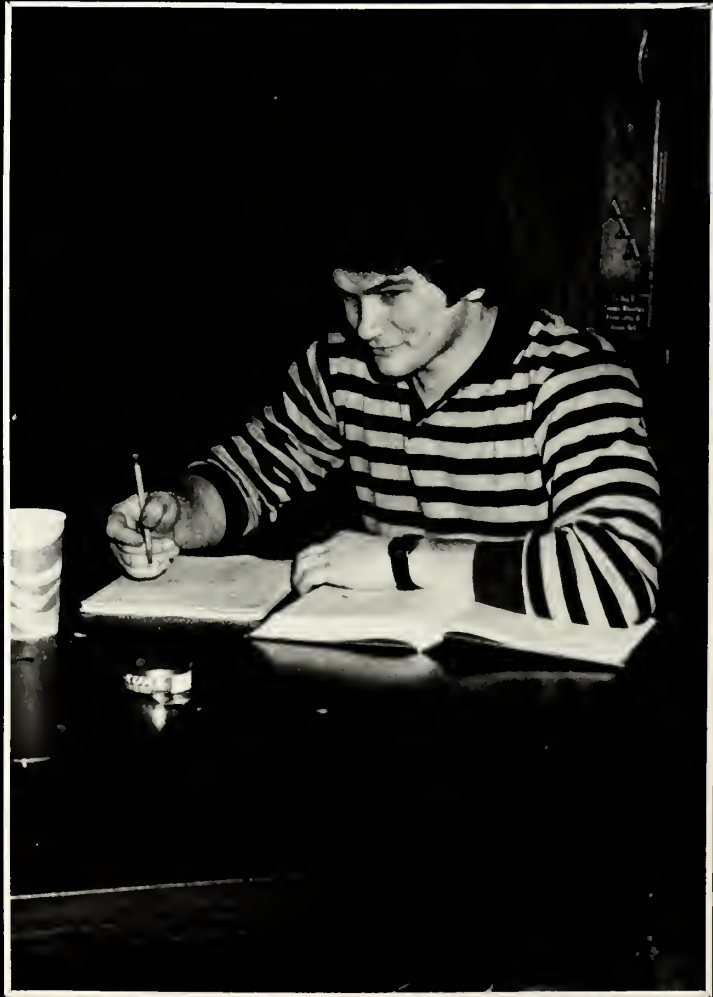

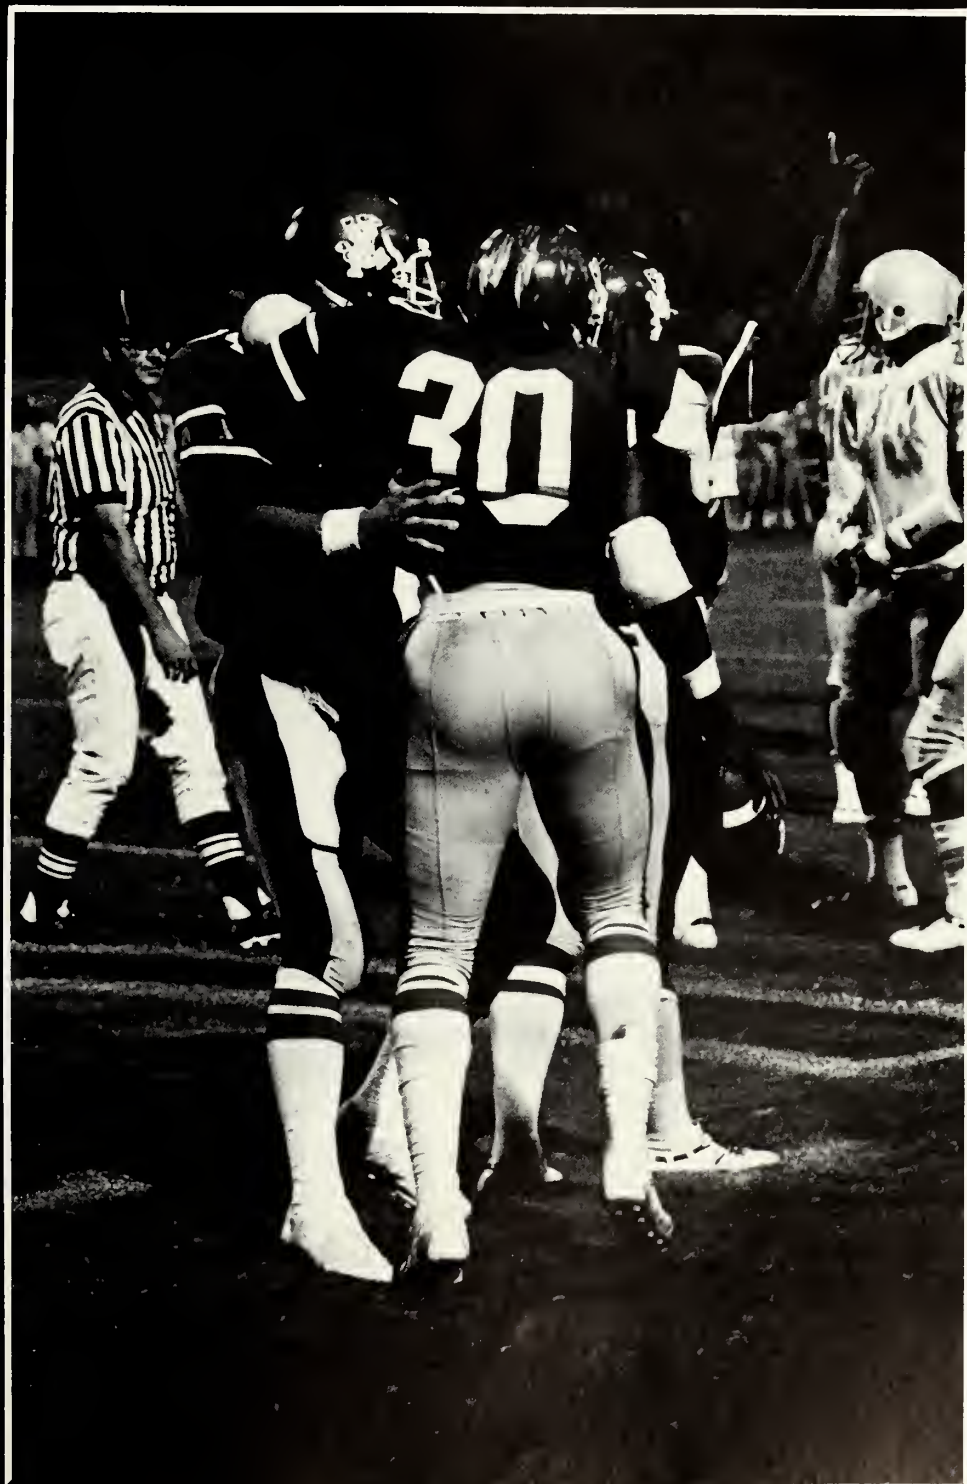

"If you're feeling good, don't ask questions. But if you're troubled, you need to make some adjustments."

"Everyone wants to win at the game of happiness, but don't go overboard and feel you have to be intensely competitive at everything in order to achieve this main objective."

"The one absolutely predictable thing in life is that circumstances will change. You can positively count on it. It's dangerous to base your actions on the assumption that everything is going to continue as it is."

"While our everyday problems are certainly real, they're hardly catastrophic when put in proper perspective."

"People seem to have a tendency to seek ways to complicate their lives. Given a choice between an easy way to do something and a more complicated way, a person will often opt to proceed along the more cumbersome route."

"Once you realize the reality of man's imperfection, you'll realize that people don't hurt you; you allow them to. This hurt often is not only the result of your inability to cope with man's imperfection, but of your taking it upon yourself to make a person into something he's not."

Keep looking out for Number One.

Child's Play, a shocking and thought provoking mystery by Robert Marasco, was ASU's entry in the American College Theatre Festival which was held in Little Rock in November.

The play, directed by Terry Huckabee, director of theater, was set in a Catholic boys' school. The plot involved jealousy, anger and masochistic incidents with a threat of the supernatural woven through it.

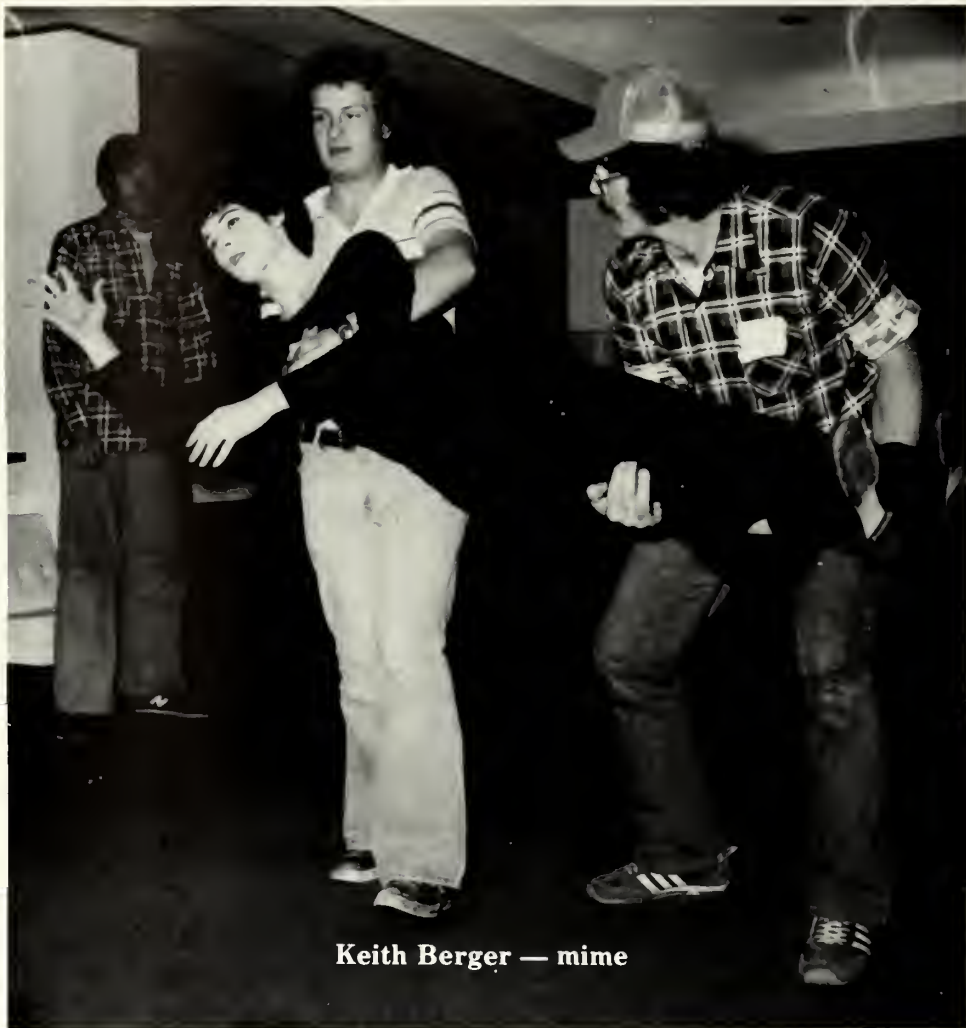

The six major characters were portrayed by Ken Hayes of Blytheville, Dale McGilliard of Brownsburg, Ind., Lee Griffin of El Dorado, Mike Flowers of North Little Rock and Larry Jones and Mike Smith of Jonesboro.

Other cast members were Don Brasfield of Earle, Richard Grace of Stuttgart, Tom Irwin of Memphis, Tenn., Randy Tankersley of Franklin, John Jethro of Drasco, Tim Mazzanti of Lake Village and Bobby Box, David Gilbert, Steve Coggin and Greg Ruff of Jonesboro.

Classic, Conference meets head Indian track season

Despite the ice and snow that hampered the Arkansas State University track pre-season practice, the season went on as usual — exciting meets and record times.

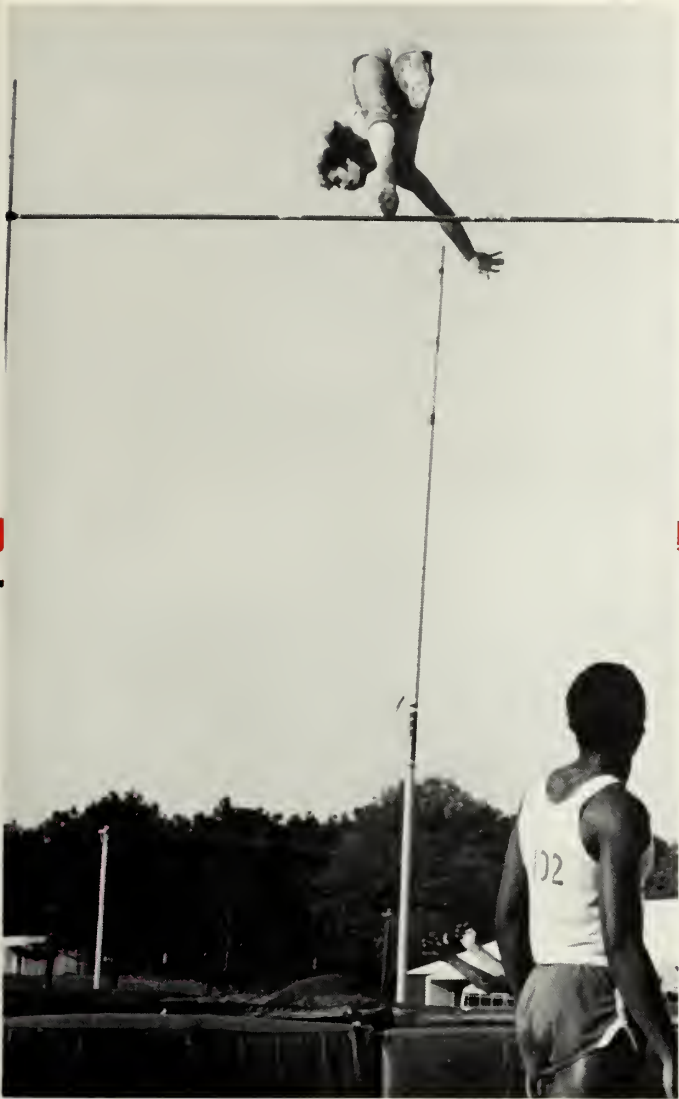

The Annual Track Classic drew in top name schools like Kansas University and Notre Dame.

ASU finished second in the Classic behind Kansas and was followed by Florida, Mississippi State, Notre Dame and Memphis State.

At the Southland Conference meet in Lafayette, La., the Tribe had to settle for a third place finish while Lamar and Louisiana Tech took the top spots.

A-State baseball looks to future

In what was termed as a rebuilding year, the Arkansas State University baseball Indians took to the field with over half of the starters being freshmen.

They battled to a .500 home record, 11-11, but could only manage a 16-31 season mark.

Jerome Miller lead the Tribe with a .360 batting average and 29 stolen bases, while Mike Allen lead all pitchers with a 2.70 earned run average.

Tommies advance to Nationals; finish second in State

Arkansas State's women's tennis team posted a 10-3 record on the year and finished second in the Regional and State tournaments.

The team also competed in the National tournament for small colleges in California.

Marcia Gibson, a sophomore from Jonesboro, won the State meet in Little Rock for the second year in a row. She then advanced to the Region IV meet where she finished first in her flight. In the National meet, she took the eighth spot.

Head Coach John Rauth announces retirement

During the fall of the year, head golf coach John Rauth announced his retirement. His many years of coaching did not go unnoticed though as he was honored at the Homecoming game and was presented with a rocking chair and a golf cart purchased from donations from former players and fans.

Golf team sports individual medalist

Smith helped to pace the team to it's 81.5 team average while becoming a medalist at the Delta State meet. There he defeated Arkansas amateur champions during each day of the two-day tournament.

Indians take Southland Conference co-championship in 1978

1978 was an exciting year; one with enthusiasm and excitement. Indian hopes were high at the beginning of the season when the players took the field (left) and even though the Tribe got off to a slow start, the backers were out in full force for the opener (right) under the lights. Larry Lawrence (below right) pointed the way for the offense all season and also won the rushing title. But the defense was the highlight of the year finishing first in every possible defensive category. They always seemed to come up with the big play (below) that would turn the game.

High hopes fall; Tribe drops first two against Tulsa, Southern Miss

Tribe defeats Drake in home opener

ASU fell victim to the "big play" as Northeast Louisiana quickly moved out in front with a 73-yard touchdown run and another on a 77-yard punt return. Before the Indians knew what had happened they were behind 21-13 and had lost number three.

The Indians beat Drake University in the home opener 10-0, a game that was a big win for everybody . . . especially Head Coach Bill Davidson. "It was a long time coming and this sure is sweet. That's the hardest time I've ever had winning the first one."

Playing on their home field for the first time in 1978, the Indian defense stops to check the measurement of a Drake offensive drive (above). Return specialist Steve Hanshen (top right). Enoch Tims (24) gets help from teammates in surrounding the Drake ball-carrier (top far right). ASU defense comes up with one of the 18 fumbles that they recovered in 1978 (far right). Nose-guard Chet Day wrestles the Drake running back down on the line of scrimmage.

Indians even score; defeat Northwestern, SIU in Carbondale

The following week the Indians defeated Northwestern Louisiana 23-14.

Almost as soon as the Indians had gotten use to playing at home it was back on the road to Carbondale, Ill., where they held on to win 26-24.

ASU opens SLC play; drops McNeese, UTA, Southwestern Louisiana

In another defensive battle the Tribe was forced to do some last second heroics in order to secure the 6-3 win over the McNeese Cowboys.

Sitting at the top of the SLC standings, ASU travelled south to play Texas-Arlington in their Homecoming game. The punting of Joe Slayton kept the Mavs in their own end of the field throughout the game. With the balanced offensive attack by the Tribe they recorded their second SLC victory 27-7.

Homecoming fever was high again the following week against Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette. But the Indians, with the help of three Doug Dobb's field goals, beat the Ragin Cajuns 16-6.

SLC crown decided in 'Ruston Bowl'; ASU falls to Tech

Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs jumped out to an early lead and ASU lost, 24-10.

Indians beat Lamar in Homecoming; tie for SLC title

ASU came to it's own against Lamar. The Indians needed a victory to tie for the conference championship. The Indians defeated the Cardinals 6-3 in a contest that saw ASU running back Larry Lawrence go over the 1,000 yard rushing mark for the year.

Head Coach Bill Davidson looks on during his last game as coach at ASU (top left). Wide receiver Jerome Miller goes up to catch a pass in the Homecoming victory (top middle). Quarterback Gene Bradley (14) runs through the path opened up by offensive tackle Jerry Castor (70) (above). Larry Lawrence (30) heads up field while guard Don Overly (68) comes back to help out (bottom left). Part of the 1978 Homecoming crowd (left).

Four seniors elected captains

Touchdown Indians!!! (top left) New Head Coach Larry Lacewell talks to Coach Davidson during the pre-game warm-ups of the Lamar game (top middle). The Indian offense (top). ## Arkansas State hires Larry Lacewell as new Indian chief

One of the biggest stories to come out of the ASU athletic department was that Bill Davidson would step down as head coach to take a position as assistant athletic director and Larry Lacewell would take over the reins of the Indians. Lacewell, who volunteered his coaching services in 1978, came to ASU after working as assistant head coach at Oklahoma University. He took over the head coaching spot after the Lamar game.

Tomahawks capture state title; keep AWISA streak alive at 54

Arkansas State University's volleyball Tomahawks marched through a tough season and ended no less than in the middle of the state playoffs where they won the state championship.

The Tommies posted a 32-9 record that saw them win 15 league matches, upset seventh-ranked Florida State and continued a conference victory march that began in October of 1975. That streak, at the end of 1978 stood at 54 straight AWISA victories.

With their win in the state playoffs the team advanced to the AIAW Region IV Tournament in Fort Worth, Texas. There they were defeated in straight matches, but that could not take away from the fact that they were one of the two teams to represent Arkansas in the tournament that involved 16 teams from a four state area.

Two other Tomahawks were named to the honorable mention squad — Pat Baker and Cheryl Buckmeier.

Coach of the Year, Kay Woodiel (below).

Injuries limit athletic participation

In the basement of Indian Hall are a lot of machines and other tables that most people never see. These are all a part of the Arkansas State University training room facilities. Ron Carroll, the athletic trainer, supervises the training room as well as setting treatment schedules for injured players, both men and women.

He, along with his staff, do all the taping of athletes before each game and also attend all contact practices. Carroll oversees the post-surgery rehabilitation of athletes.

Record Fieldhouse crowds watch surprising Indians

Head Coach Marvin Adams and his players had something new this year during the basketball season — a Fieldhouse full of fans.

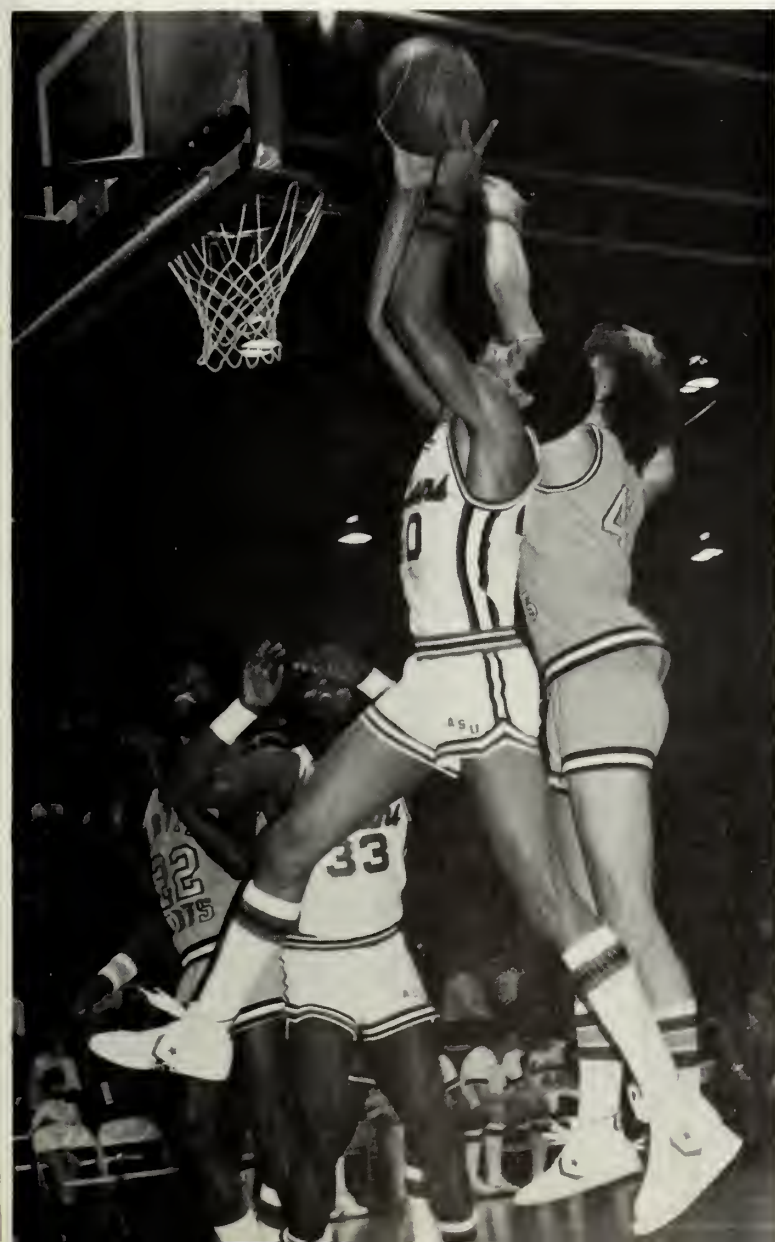

The Indians played before record crowds throughout much of the year and the people were not quiet. They voiced their approval for the play of the Indians, which was exciting right from the tip-off.

For a team that was scheduled to finish in the cellar of the Southland Conference, the Indians fared well finishing the year with a 15-12 mark. They beat Southwestern Louisiana for the first time and nearly beat SLC champion Lamar losing in overtime.

Tomahawks take first in AWISA Tournament

Taking a first place in the AWISA State Tournament highlighted another winning season by the ASU Tomahawks, that saw them battle to a 15-7 record.

As a result of the win in the tournament, which was held in Indian Fieldhouse, the Tommies advance to the regional playoffs in Dallas.

All-Conference player Sue Jayroe led the Tommies in scoring with her 12.1 average and also lead in rebounding with 9.5 average.

GREEKS

*Greek life
begins with rush*

Rush, pledging, member, drop-in, pledge pin, sorority, fraternity, philanthropy — to many college students these are just a lot of words, but to the student that decides to become a member of a Greek organization they have a special meaning.

Becoming a Greek begins with rush. Rush is a deluge of parties, getting to know new people, more parties, finding the group you have the most in common with and want to join, lots of fun, making friends with more people at one time than you ever thought possible, and, most of all, rush is a time of learning about yourself and your ideals.

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity annually sponsors its own version of the Olympics. Sororities compete in various events and the winner is awarded $100 for its philanthropy. Zeta Tau Alpha won the 1978 contest.

TKEs win Fingerbowl

Each year, Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity sponsors the TKE Fingerbowl. 1978 was the 48th year for the Fingerbowl. The TKEs faced Sigma Phi Epsilon and won by a score of 32-12.

The game is preceded by a parade. This year's TKE Fingerbowl Queen was Kris Osborne, TKE Sweetheart.

Greeks reveal talents in Zeta Follies

Zeta Follies is an annual variety show sponsored by Zeta Tau Alpha. This year's first place winner was Kappa Kappa Psi. Second place went to Alpha Gamma Rho and Alpha Gamma Delta received third place honors.

Proceeds from Zeta Follies go to the sorority's national philanthropy, the National Association for Retarded Citizens.

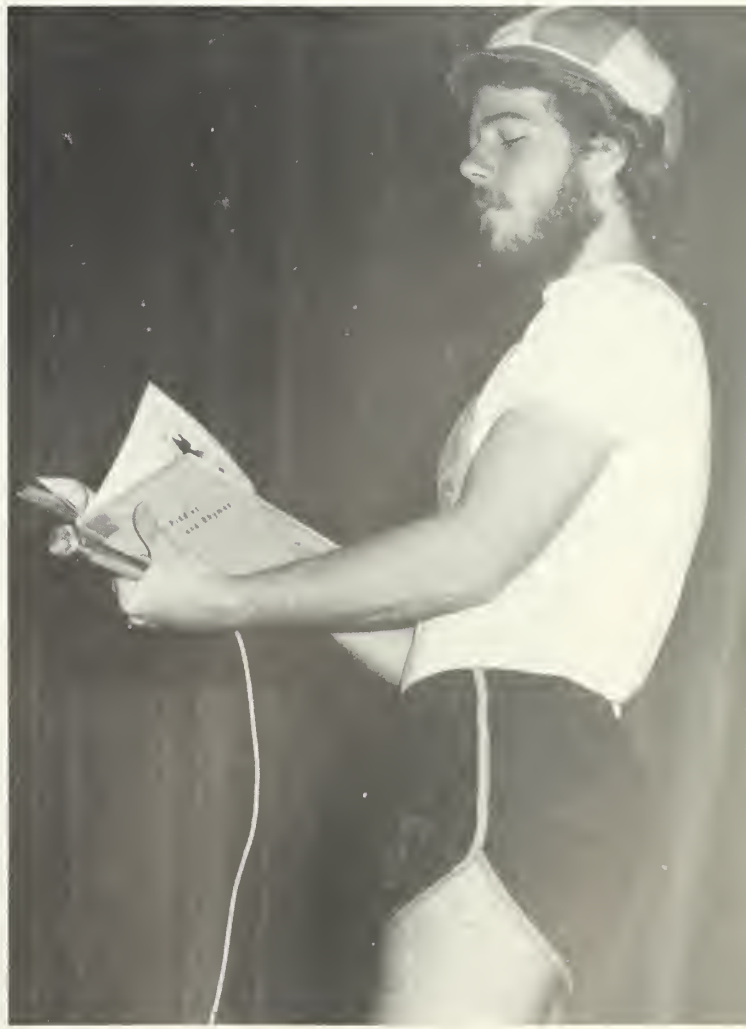

The overall winner in the Tau Kappa Epsilon sponsored talent show was Don Quinton, who received $75. First place in Greek competition went to Beverly Hazelip, Kelly Jones and Barbara Hazelip representing Alpha Omicron Pi. Second place in the Greek competition went to Danny Girone of Alpha Tau Omega. Nicki Costner received first place in independent competition, and second place in independent competition went to McKinley Arnold. Proceeds from the talent show went to St. Jude's Children Hospital.

What do Arkansas State University Greeks do when the day-to-day routine of classes, studying, and work gets to them? The answer is party, of course.

But Greeks don't have just ordinary parties! Many of the sorority and fraternity parties have a special theme. The Toga parties inspired by the popular movie "Animal House" were a big hit on campus this year. Greeks also celebrate many holidays and special events on campus with a party.

But whatever the theme or occasion, you can bet Greeks will find a reason to party hearty!

Have you ever wondered how many states and countries are represented in the Arkansas State University student body?

Arkansans are certainly not the only ones that attend ASU. ASU students come from 35 states and seven countries (besides the United States).

Several New Englanders have traveled south to attend ASU including 30 from New York and 12 from New Jersey. Other far away states that are represented at ASU include Alaska, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania.

As would be expected the states bordering Arkansas are well represented on campus with 403 from Missouri and 74 from Tennessee.

The seven countries represented besides the U.S. include Canada, Iran, Nicaragua, Nigeria, Singapore, Thailand, and Venezuela.

Who stands a little over six feet tall, weighs about a ton and has been on the Arkansas State University campus for 20 years?

His name is Clyde and he is the marble statue of an Indian chief that stands in the hallway of the Carl R. Reng Center. Although Clyde is familiar to most ASU students few know Clyde's history.

The Clyde was the brainchild of Sonny Parks, Student Government Association president in 1957. Mrs. E. F. Passmore, then chairwoman of the ASU Art Department, designed the statue.

The design was then sent to journeymen (sculptors who are no longer apprentices, but not yet craftsmen) for an estimate. The journeymen constructed several wax models and sent them back to ASU officials for approval or rejection. A model was selected and construction of Clyde began.

Construction was finished and the statue was sold to ASU for $1,100. But Clyde's arrival on campus was delayed for several months when the base was lost in transit.

The base finally arrived and Clyde made his debut on campus in December 1958. Clyde was placed in the foyer of Wilson Hall until 1964 when the Carl R. Reng Center was constructed and Clyde moved to the Reng Center hallway.

During his early days on campus Clyde was extremely popular. At one time freshmen were required to tip their "beanies" and recite a small poem when passing Clyde. Sororities used to require their pledges to make sure Clyde was clean by scrubbing him with toothbrushes.

The statue was given the name Clyde by a Herald photographer, because he was constructed by the Clyde Spence Monument Company.

Clyde is actually a stone representation of an Osage Indian, who once resided in the area.

Behind Wilson Hall on the ASU campus stands a gray cement arch weathered by time and entangled by vines.

To many students passing by, the arch is simply an aesthetic structure, but more than 60 years ago it was the threshold to the then Arkansas State College's administration building. H. E. Eldridge of Jonesboro, a former superintendent of buildings and grounds, is one of the few alive today who still remembers the history of the arch.

Eldridge said the old administration building was built during the 1911-1912 school term by the Henderson McDaniel Construction Company. According to Eldridge the old administration building sat exactly where Wilson Hall now sits "except the R. E. Wilson Hall covers more than four times as much space as the old building."

Tragedy struck the building Jan. 12, 1931, Eldridge's 29th birthday. The building was completely destroyed by fire. Eldridge said the fire department ruled that the building caught on fire due to faulty wiring.

The only lasting remnant of the building that was not hauled off campus was that arch, the front entrance to the building, which now stands behind Wilson Hall.

The Board of Trustees, with such members as Lee Wilson Sr., and W. L. Banks of Jonesboro, allowed the arch to stay on campus for aesthetic reasons. And today it still stands bearing the signatures of lovers and students gone by.

"Jumpin' Joe", the familiar symbol of the Arkansas State University Indians, appears on everything from drinking glasses, notebooks and pencils to wall plaques and ashtrays. The origin of the caricature dates back to 1948 and is credited to Avery Knight, an ASU student who designed a large paper maché head of an Indian to be used on a float in the Homecoming Parade. Four years later the design was used by Gary Dehls as a trademark in the Student Government Association presidential campaign.

"Jumpin' Joe" was officially adopted in 1957, and today he serves as ASU official athletic symbol.

It's at times like these that you find out who your true friends are. Those people who can put up with an editor during deadline time and like her anyway, are definitely something special. Just like every other editor, I have the typical people to thank — the staff for working sometimes, the photographers for working some, and the advisor for not killing me when I knew that he wanted to very much. I also have the not so typical people to thank — Robert Ringer for the inspirational words of his book which I used in the theme, my parents who came to Jonesboro to see me when I couldn't get home to see them, my roommate Rae Ann who surprisingly enough is still my roommate, my neighbors at Terrace (especially Mike who knows how to draw layouts), and my dear friend Thom whose support will be remembered long after this final deadline is forgotten.
